Sisters' Steers Tops... Queens Named In Fair Windup

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The grand champions and purple ribbon parade with its style show and announcement of the 4-H style queens wound up the Lancaster County Fair Thursday evening.

The style queens included Beth Eickmeir of Rt. 5 Lincoln, Sue Kess of Lincoln, Marcy Perry of Lincoln, Donna Deinert of Rt. 4 Lincoln, Ramona Godkin of Lincoln, with the alternate queens listed as Joyce Gibbins of Lincoln, Lisa Brehm of Lincoln, Cheryl Buss of Rt. 8 Lincoln, Susan Furrer of Lincoln and Mary Mastaler of Lincoln.

"It is the first time that girls from Lincoln have taken most of the top awards. Usually it has been rural girls that have been the winners," said Twila Lidolph, home agent.

The champion and reserve champion in the market steer division were won by a pair of sisters, Lola and Peggy Doeschot of Firth. Lola who is only nine and too young to go to the state fair had the top animal in the beef show. The steer is a half Simmental-half Hereford steer named Petunia. The second place steer named Ulei, a 3/4 Simmental, will make the trip to the state fair competition.

Peggy also showed the best feeder calf in the calf division. This was also a 3/4 Simmental. Peggy's winning steers were bred by Golden Link Simmental farms of Firth while Lola obtained her steer from Earnie Splitgerber of Torrington, Wyo.

Named top dairy exhibitors were Randy Kempkes of Walton with an Arvshire, Sandy Sieck of Crete with a Brown Swiss, Arthur Wiechert II of Lincoln with a Guernsey, Steve Snell of Denton with a Holstein, Doug Wassnug of Lincoln with a Jersey and Russ Anderson of Ceresco with a milking Shorthorn.

No overall champion of dairy animals is selected.

The grand champion market hog was exhibited by Roger Maahs of Lincoln and the top market lamb was a crossbred exhibited by Roger Bruss of Lincoln.

More than 2,000 youngsters from every part of the county participated in the 4-H fair entering projects ranging from electric motors to rockets.

Open class exhibitors also entered a wide variety of items for judging including the largest poultry show in the history of the fair.

One new feature of the county fair was the horticulture section which previously had been restricted to the state fair.

Mrs. Dale Weese, secretary of the fair board predicted that this area of the fair will attract a lot of smaller gardeners next year once more people know they can enter without facing statewide competition.

"We think we should work on gardens harder this next year. With the high price of food we feel a lot of people will be interested in trying their hand at growing vegetables."

We plan to set up a series of meetings in the spring and early summer to explain how to grow various garden crops and the home agents are going to have programs on how to can and freeze food in connection with the program," according to Emery Nelson, county agent.

Nelson reported that the planning stages for the program are already completed with extra information pamphlets ordered.

Watergate Senators Won't Yield

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was no sign Thursday the Senate Watergate committee will yield to President Nixon's plea to turn the scandal over to the courts while the administration turns its attention to other issues.

Only one of the seven Watergate senators, Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., openly advocated that view.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., repeated his urgent requests that the President release tape recordings of relevant presidential conversations and said it was unfortunate Nixon had taken the attitude the committee is "out to get him."

Reporting responses running from 5 to 1 to 6 to 1 in overwhelming support of the President's views, the White House said Nixon is determined to get on with the pending national business of foreign policy, the economy, inflation, the energy crisis and legislative proposals.

Ervin's office reported a flood of telegrams received after Nixon's speech ran 441 in favor of the committee's investigation with 88 supporting the President's position. Offices of other committee members reported a similar response.

White House Deputy Press

Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon will face the Watergate issue at least one more time, at a news conference—his first in five months—to be held at San Clemente, Calif., just prior to Labor Day.

Before that, Warren said Nixon will begin a series of policy statements on national issues in a speech Monday to the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans.

The Watergate committee, now in a one-month recess of its televised hearings, is seriously considering speeding up the investigative process when hearings resume in September.

"We're just trying to find out if a crime was committed in the White House," said Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., a committee member and one of several senators who took issue with Nixon's criticism of the committee.

Talmadge renewed a plea for the President to release the tapes, said he does not believe that type of information is privileged and added.

"There's nothing in the Constitution that authorizes the President of the United States or anyone on his staff to commit a crime... I'm not out to get anybody. We are just a fact-finding body and we are not going to prosecute or defend anybody."

Ervin said he believes Nixon has taken a "queer position" when he said the presidency would be damaged as an institution if the tapes of his conversations with aides were released.

"The Constitution wouldn't be destroyed and the heavens wouldn't fall" if the tapes were released, Ervin said.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a committee member, said he was disappointed at the lack of details in Nixon's speech, saying little had been added that would help the panel in its work.

Bigger 1974 Crop Sought ... Demands Heavy

Washington (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz lifted all planting restrictions Thursday on wheat, which soared past $5 a bushel this week on Midwestern grain markets, in an effort to boost 1974 production enough to exceed heavy demands.

Pressure on the administration to impose export controls on wheat eased, however, with a sudden dropoff in grain futures market prices which began Wednesday.

Butz and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz have resisted pressure from Bakers and Millers for export controls to insure adequate domestic wheat supplies and keep prices down.

The government predicts export of about two-thirds of this year's estimated U.S. wheat harvest of a little more than 1.7 billion bushels — which is about the usual percentage for sales abroad — but total demand already exceeds the harvest forecast.

Butz Thursday acted under terms of the new four-year farm bill in setting the 1974 harvesting allotment at 55 million acres, up 1.3 million acres from the current estimate.

This allotment, on which wheat growers will get full government income protection under the new subsidy law, should produce about 1.78 billion bushels of wheat given good weather, and it should equal domestic and foreign demand in the 1974-75 marketing season starting next July 1.

But department officials said that under the new allotment, farms could easily increase their harvest to 60 million acres or more, producing a record 1.85 billion bushels.

This, they said, would be enough to meet all forecast demands and leave a surplus of 70 million bushels for reserve stocks expected to drop to a 20-year low next summer.

The department confirmed that farmers will not be required to leave any land idle to qualify for 1974 farm subsidies.

The allotment does not limit total acreage that can be planted in wheat, but only the acreage that will qualify for full federal subsidies to insure that farmers get a government-set "target price" for each bushel of wheat they sell.

For example, a farmer with 100 acres of cropland can plant all of it in wheat, but he would be entitled to a make-up income subsidy on only the acreage allowed under the allotment. He would get the subsidy if the average price he receives from July through November next year fell below the $2.05-per-bushel "target price" for the 1974 wheat crop set by the new farm law — but only on the allotted acres.

In another development, the Cost of Living Council said 68 of the nation's biggest corporations have served notice they intend to raise prices now that the two-month price freeze has expired. Council Director John T. Dunlop said the number was "not out of line" with advance predictions.

Elsewhere on the economic front:

— Dunlop announced that the price freeze on gasoline and diesel fuel will be extended for another two weeks, until Sept. 1, to give dealers additional time to compute allowable ceiling prices under the complex Phase 4 rules and to post octane and price information on gasoline pumps. The freeze on all other petroleum products will be lifted as previously scheduled at midnight Sunday.

— Indicating that reports of a sudden cooling in the economy might be premature, the Federal Reserve Board said industrial production rose by 0.7% in July, matching similar advances in April and May. The June increase was revised upward from 0.3 to 0.5%.

— The Census Bureau said retail sales last week dropped 3% to $9.5 billion from a week earlier, but still were about 12% ahead of the same period a year ago.

City Council Hears

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln citizens jammed the City Council chambers Thursday night to request a variety of additions to Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's proposed $103.9 million record-breaking budget.

About 20 people appeared before city lawmakers and the mayor to petition for additional dollars from city coffers or from the revenue sharing pie for projects ranging from undergirding a problem drainage ditch to underwriting an opera.

Mayor Schwartzkopf told the crowd that no allowance has been made in his budget for salary and wage adjustments, since negotiations are still under way with police, fire, bus and the City Employees Association (CEA).

Referring to those wage negotiations, which are reportedly deadlocked, Schwartzkopf squelched any attempt by those various employee groups to appeal to the council for support. The mayor referred the employees to the city negotiating team.

But, Charles Noren, attorney for the CEA, did get in a request to retain $15,000 in the budget for unscheduled proficiency merit raises.

The final fate of the budget rests with the council.

Other requests for financial aid included:

— $10,660 for Lincoln Legal Aid Society to help fund another attorney in the office.

— $75,000 to help Bryan Hospital mobile heart team operate around the clock. James Hewitt of the board of trustees, noted that there is no service from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m.

— $10,000 to hire a deputy equal opportunity officer, requested by Genie Gupta of the League of Women Voters. She also reported that the league questioned a $25,000 allocation out of revenue sharing funds for a library station, instead suggesting that a bookmobile be purchased. She also questioned the proposed $25,000 subsidy to Lincoln General's chemical dependency unit, instead suggesting that other programs of outpatient care be funded.

— $10,000 requested from Emily McKnight to underwrite a world premier showing of the opera "Abelard" from the Ronald Millar's play "Abelard and Heloise."

— $48,453 to help sponsor the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs program.

— funds for lighting the Uni Park ballfield so that hard-ball baseball can be played in Lincoln.

— Vynette Creager, 1805 Devoe Dr., who asked the city to correct a drainage ditch situation along Trendwood Park which has caused water to seep into her basement since 1969.

— Funds for the pre-trial release program, a community based treatment center and outside exercise area for inmates at the City-County jail were requested by Elaine Carpenter of the League of Women Voters who termed the present correctional program in the city "appalling."

— $92,150 for St. Monica's home to help young women offenders was requested by Pat Wall, to start new programs, such as a work release program.

— Gerry Coffin requested $76,608 for the Lincoln Action Program's information and referral service.

— $30,000 for the Peoples' City

Mission and Emergency Family Shelter requested as an emergency appropriation by the Rev. Jerry Dunn.

— Betty Davis of the Goals for Nebraska Committee requested $1,500.

— Additional funds for youth-oriented recreational programs was requested by Lincoln Northeast student Tom Hanna. He noted that no funds had been included for a number of innovative programs suggested by the Parks and Recreation Department in a recent questionnaire.

Director of Parks and Recreation Don Smith reported that of the 340 returns, 66% of the teenagers favored creating a beach area at Holmes Lake for dances and parties, for $200,000; 62% favored inner-tube races down the Platte, for $500; 56% favored organizing a teen recreation center, for $30,000; while 55.5% favored rock bands at Pinewood Bowl, for $2,000.

— $10,000 for the Youth Services System was requested by Bill Janike.

Nebraska Dollar-Volume Index Shows Big April To May Rise

The Nebraska dollar-volume index moved up sharply from April to May primarily due to a dramatic jump in cash receipts from farm marketings, according to the monthly publication of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln "Business in Nebraska."

Most of the agricultural growth has resulted from increases in prices, which rose 29.4% nationally and 32.2% in Nebraska from the first five months of 1972 to the first five months of 1973.

The impact of inflation in May could be plainly seen when the 16.1% increase in dollar volume from May 1972 to May 1973 was compared to the 4.4% increase in physical volume for the same period.

The dollar volume of agricultural products was up 45.3% while the physical volume rose 7.6%. Nonagriculture dollar volume was up 10.9% and the physical volume 3.8%.

Over the same period, the wholesale price index increased 10% and the consumer price index rose 4.6%, according to figures from the Bureau of Business Research.

As with the Nebraska economy, the fastest-growth national sector has been agriculture, and the slowest growth has been in government.

Net taxable retail sales in Nebraska increased 15.9% from May 1972 to May 1973. This acceleration in May sales in Nebraska ran counter to the national pattern of a slowdown in the rate of sales growth.

Excluding motor vehicle sales and adjusting for price increases, the May to May increase in retail activity was 8.3%. Over the same period price-adjusted banking activity increased 7.1%.

Here is a summary of Nebraska's net taxable retail sales by regions (unadjusted for price changes).

Arab Hijacks Plane; Lands At Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A slightly tipsy Libyan gunman hijacked a Lebanese jetliner to Israel on Thursday "to show that not all Arabs want to throw the Jews into the ocean."

The Boeing 707 of Middle East Airlines was released nearly seven hours later and flew safely to Beirut with 125 crew and passengers aboard.

Police who arrested the skyjacker, identified as Mahmoud Toumi, 37, quoted him as saying he did it in the interests of Arab-Israeli brotherhood.

"Some Arabs believe Israel must have a country, but Cairo prevents the Arabs by force from showing this," Toumi said. Among the passengers aboard the plane, hijacked after takeoff from Benghazi, Libya, was the Libyan ambassador to Iraq, a cousin of former King Idriss.

It was the third Mideast hijacking in less than a month and the first time in more than 25 years of Arab-Israeli feuding that an Arab airliner had taken off from Israel.

Toumi gave up easily to security men who stormed into the plane after Israeli air force Phantom jets escorted it to Lod airport.

Capt. Adel Kawas, the Lebanese pilot, said the hijacker was crazy.

"He just came into my cockpit as we were near Cyprus, holding two guns and saying he wanted to go to Israel, and if you don't go I will kill you and your passengers," said Kawas. "I wouldn't endanger the safety of 116 passengers."

Said Toumi at an airport news conference: "I told the pilot I had explosives, but actually I had none. The passengers could have caught me, but they didn't try."

"I conquered the airplane to come here," Toumi continued, switching from English to Arabic. "Since I was a boy I was influenced by the persecution and hard life of the Jews in Libya... I have no asylum except in Israel."

Toumi, dressed in a turquoise suit, said he was not a terrorist and belonged to no organization.

The Israeli chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, said the government would try Toumi because "hijackers all over the world should be punished."

Loophole Turns Up In U.S. Aid To Vietnam

CHILD . . . in Cambodia unhappy in war.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it has advised the Saigon government that it will not replace any U.S.-supplied military equipment used by the South Vietnamese in support of Cambodia or Laos.

But Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements said there is no provision barring South Vietnamese troops from using American supplies in clearing communist-held sanctuaries in Cambodia which pose a threat to Vietnam.

Clements made the written statements in reply to questions raised by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, during Armed Services Committee hearings last week.

Hughes asked the question Aug. 9, six days before the last U.S. combat activity in Indochina was to end under a compromise between Congress and President Nixon. Clements' written answer, made public Thursday, was dated Aug. 14, one day before the cutoff.

There have been reports that with the end of the bombing in Cambodia, Saigon was planning to send thousands of ethnic Cambodian troops from its own forces to help defend the Phnom Penh regime. To move them would require the use of transportation given to South Vietnam by the United States.

In his letter to Hughes and to Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., acting chairman of the Armed Services committee, Clements recalled that in approving the 1973 military spending bill, Congress had included a proviso barring use of military aid to South Vietnam:

"To support Vietnamese or other free world forces in actions designed to provide military support and assistance to the government of Cambodia or Laos . . ."

Clements said the United States has given no aid designed to assist South Vietnamese forces in military support of Cambodia or Laos.

He said Saigon has been advised that any supplies or equipment used for such support would not be replaced.

But if South Vietnam is directly threatened from Communist-held border sanctuaries in Cambodia, it is a different story, Clements indicated.

While he did not say so, the same interpretation presumably would apply to Laos sanctuaries used by communist forces to attack South Vietnam.

But since most areas on both sides of the long border are effectively under communist forces control already, it could prove difficult to determine where a threat might have originated.

Nowhere in his statement did Clements attempt to explain how the determination would be made, or by whom, as to whether the use of certain U.S.-supplied equipment by the South Vietnamese had violated the law's proviso.

Weicker Meets 'Forgotten 4'

Washington (UPI) — Four imprisoned Watergate conspirators — sometimes known as "the forgotten four" — met for six hours this week at their request with Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., a member of the Senate committee. Weicker's office said Thursday.

The spokesman said it was safe to assume the four Miami-area Cuban-Americans — Bernard L. Barker, Frank A. Sturgis, Virgilio R. Gonzalez and Eugenio R. Martinez — had sought Weicker's advice and aid.

Magruder Pleads Guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of President Nixon's reelection committee, pleaded guilty in federal court Thursday to a single conspiracy charge in connection with the Watergate case.

Magruder was the second former Nixon campaign aide to agree to cooperate with federal prosecutors in exchange for being allowed to plead guilty to a single charge.

Frederick C. LaRue pleaded guilty on June 27 to a single count of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica deferred sentencing of Magruder until after any future Watergate trials.

The judge read a letter from Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox to Magruder's attorneys which gave the terms under which the former administration aide agreed to cooperate. In exchange, the prosecutor agreed not to pursue any other potential charges against Magruder arising out of the Watergate affair.

Magruder waived his right to have his case considered by the grand jury and pleaded to a charge filed by the prosecutors.

He was charged with conspiracy to unlawfully intercept wire and oral communications, to obstruct justice, and to defraud the United States.

The prosecutors charged that Magruder and unnamed co-conspirators carried out "a strategy to unlawfully break into the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee . . . and unlawfully intercept various wire and oral communications taking place in said offices."

Industry Required To Pay Share Of City Sewage Treatment Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency adopted regulations Thursday requiring industries to share in the costs of municipal wastewater treatment.

EPA also proposed waste discharge limits for two industries and formally announced its municipal discharge standards.

The actions open a drive to set discharge limits for all major polluters by the end of 1974, and they pull the cork from a bottleneck in the flow of federal funds for municipal treatment facilities.

Acting EPA administrator John R. Quarles Jr. told newsmen the discharge limits, now beginning to emerge, "will be the most critical part of the administrative machinery to implement the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act." He said they will "cut the pattern which this country's water pollution programs will follow for the next 10 years."

Under the 1972 act, industries discharging waste water must apply the "best practicable" control technology by July 1977, and the "best available technology economically achievable" by July 1, 1983.

Municipal waste-water treatment plants must apply "secondary treatment" by July 1977.

Industrial discharges are to be controlled through a system of discharge permits setting specific control requirements for each plant.

One major action links both industry and municipalities in the antipollution effort.

It requires industries discharging wastes through federally financed municipal systems to share both the construction and operating costs of the facilities.

The cost-sharing provision applies only to facilities which received federal grants after March 1, 1973, thus exempting most existing municipal treatment plants.

But industries would have to share the cost of any improvements made on existing plants with the aid of federal funds.

The cost-sharing requirement bars the common practice of granting "volume discounts" to industrial users of municipal systems.

The first two guidelines require sugar beet refiners and insulation fiberglass manufacturers to eliminate completely their waste water discharges by 1983.

Sugar beet refiners with land available for treatment lagoons, allowing them to recirculate waste water, must apply the zero-discharge standard by 1977, but others were allowed to discharge, under certain limitations, until 1983.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

President Nixon's Watergate address to the nation Wednesday evening may clearly be labeled a political effort. One rather tends to question, in fact, why the President even bothered to go to the American people with the statement he made.

The affairs of Watergate are no more clear nor any less so as a result of the President's speech. He cleared up absolutely nothing while obviously seeking to improve his own image in a number of ways.

Some of the things he said, in fact, were rather incredible. He said, for instance, that "what really hurts in matters of this sort is not the fact that they occur, because overzealous people in campaigns do things that are wrong. What really hurts is if you try to cover it up."

That is a very odd moral standard, indeed. It seems to say that breaking of the law is of no importance so long as those who do are caught. There is in that statement a show of callousness that has been typical of the entire Watergate episode.

Then, Nixon sought to soften the impact of Watergate by inferring, at least, that the investigation of it has degenerated into a personal political vendetta against him. "As the weeks have gone by," he stated, "it has become clear that both the hearings themselves and some of the commentaries on them have become increasingly absorbed in an effort to implicate the President personally in the illegal activities that took place."

A little earlier, he had sought to make a few points at the expense of the communications media, saying: "For over four months, Watergate has dominated the news media. During the past three months, the three major networks have devoted an average of 22 hours of television time a week to the subject. The Senate committee has heard two million words of testimony."

Later in his remarks, the President sought to paint a little broader picture with the Watergate brush, to let it spill over a little onto others.

"No individual," he said, "no group and no political party has a corner on the market on morality in America... If we do what is necessary to prevent abuses in the future — on both sides — we can emerge from this experience a better and stronger nation..."

And finally, he sought justification for Watergate in the political unrest of the 1960's, pointing to campus riots, bombings, burnings, disruptions of political affairs and other acts of either civil or criminal disobedience.

In all this, maybe he managed with some listeners to shift the blame for Watergate or to plant in their minds a rationalization for the affair that saves the conscience. But Watergate has not been the average run-of-the-mill political trick.

Watergate has been a wholesale corruption of power at the very highest level of government. It has been a gigantic abuse of public office and a deliberate disdain for the law. It involves a commission of crimes in high office unparalleled in the history of the nation.

All this he refers to as an "obsession" with Watergate and all this he would have us now forget about in the interest of other national concerns. Other national concerns need not be put aside, however, while the answers to Watergate are sought.

In our opinion, President Nixon has done hardly anything to contribute to a full disclosure and understanding of this scandal other than to proclaim his own innocence. Watergate should not be abandoned until all that can be learned about it has been learned.

Remote Possibilities In Domino Theory

WASHINGTON — Despite Spiro Agnew's vehement denial of involvement in an apparent Maryland kickback scheme, the vice president's possible new vulnerability could boost Democratic interest in trying to impeach President Richard Nixon.

To reach this conclusion one must borrow the "domino theory" from Southeast Asia and see how it applies to the war along the Potomac. So far, one of Mr. Nixon's major buttresses against impeachment — in addition to the lack of real proof against him — has been the reluctance of congressional Democrats to simply replace Republican Nixon with Republican Agnew.

If any serious possibility develops that the vice president is indictable or could be forced to resign his office, Washington Democrats may then want to try to force the President out, too. If the Agnew domino goes, then the GOP has only the Nixon domino left. Remember that the Number Three man in the succession is House Speaker Carl Albert, a Democrat.

Albert's chances of stepping into the White House are slim, but here's how it could happen. Suppose Agnew's circumstances continue to worsen, and sometime in the early fall, he resigns. At this point, President Nixon, under the terms of the 25th Amendment, would be obliged to pick a successor for Agnew and submit the name for approval by a majority vote of both houses of Congress. The provision has never been used before, and so its mechanics aren't clear. But it is fair to say that Congress can take its own sweet time, holding hearings should it so choose. Democratic leaders alert to their opportunity could go one step further and stall, leaving the nomination

Widening Flood Area

GOP Asks Disclosure

Frantically searching for an issue to unhorse Gov. Exon, the Nebraska Republican Party has singled out an area of concern that should be uncomfortable close to home — the stockpiling of large amounts of money for possible future campaigns for office.

State GOP Chairman Bill Barrett Tuesday charged that the Citizens for Exon Committee has banked as much as $100,000 in anticipation of an Exon campaign for re-election and he called for a full disclosure of all funds. Wednesday Republican National Committeewoman Patricia LaRue Smith said the "public deserves to know now" the financial status of Democrat Exon's campaign organization. "It is regrettable that a public official would not want to make a full disclosure of all the money he received, especially when all the funds were raised while he has been in office," she said.

This rather brassy and desperate challenge to the governor over the stockpiling of campaign funds is unbecoming to a party led nationally by a president whose own re-election campaign committee accumulated vast amounts of money in the shadows — some of it illegally — and repeatedly sought to outmaneuver federal reporting laws and a party whose local candidates for high office have traditionally been the beneficiaries of huge campaign treasure chests.

Despite the desperate quality of their challenge, however, the Nebraska Republican leaders happen to be right and we don't think the governor will disagree with them on his need to report funds received.

While branding as "absolutely ridiculous" Barrett's assertion that the Exon campaign vault contains up to $100,000, the governor said "when and if I become a candidate for office and at the appropriate time, I will make a disclosure of all campaign funds like I always have in the past, strictly following the law."

We have full confidence that the governor will act in the spirit, as well as abiding by the letter, of the law and will live up to his obligation to the voters of the state to spell out the sources of his financial support.

We think it's appropriate, given the political climate, that the Republicans have raised the issue, and we hope they tend to the disclosure of the bountiful contributions many of their candidates receive with the same amount of zeal that they have used in attempting to embarrass the governor.

Travel Order Risky

Gov. Exon is expressing the views of many of those who support humanizing rehabilitation programs in his concern "with the attitude and actions of a few inmates that could place the whole program of reform in jeopardy."

Exon was referring to an incident Saturday in which two inmates at the Nebraska Penal Complex escaped from their escorts after leaving the institution under a travel order. The two were among a group of ten granted travel rights to see and participate in the Indian pow wow being held at Sawyer Snell park in Lincoln.

The travel order enables an inmate to leave the grounds under the supervision of an employee and it has been the least successful of those programs (travel order, furlough, work release) which afford an inmate some time outside the prison walls, according to Victor Walker, director of the Department of Correctional services. In the past four months, 163 inmates have left the institution on this kind of an order. Five escaped and two are charged with crimes of a violent nature.

Apparently the supervision of those out on a travel order has not been good enough or perhaps the inmates granted a travel order have not been properly screened. At any rate, Walker said prison officials are looking at an improved structure of the program or perhaps a curtailment.

Perhaps the officials will find it necessary to tighten up in this one area before the whole program suffers at the hands of adverse public opinion.

The Military Under Fire

WASHINGTON—This country's professional military men are going through a hard time. The Senate Armed Services Committee has shown that the Air Force secretly bombed Laos and Cambodia when both were neutral countries. Similarly, the Marines crossed the border into Laos in early 1969 and engaged in secret, heavy fighting there.

An elaborate system of dual reporting was devised to conceal the secret bombing. This deception, coming after the Army's attempted cover-up of My Lai and other massacres in Vietnam, has damaged the honor and undermined the self-esteem of the fighting forces. Military officers offer a seemingly endless round of explanations and rationalizations.

This is not how military people like to think of themselves or how most Americans are accustomed to thinking of their military. Those of us old enough to remember clearly World War II can recall the pride which everyone felt in the armed forces. There was awe and gratitude for the Marines who stormed the beaches of Tarawa and for the soldiers who fought for Omaha Beach on D-Day. The pilots and their crews who night-bombed the factories, supply lines and, yes, the cities of Germany were unquestioned heroes.

In the emergency of war, the small regular Army and Navy, largely ignored in peacetime, cast up leaders — Eisenhower, Bradley, Patton, Nimitz, Halsey — of astonishingly high quality. In his dignity and simplicity, George C. Marshall recalled an earlier Virginian, George Washington.

This sense of total identity between the country and its armed forces persisted through the Korean War. Who can forget the thrill of the Inchon landings or the heroic bravery of the soldiers and marines who fought off the Chinese in the bitter winter of 1950-51.

These events from the recent past are worth recalling because they place in perspective the plight of the armed forces caught, as they are, in the lies, evasions, cruel excesses, and moral confusion of the Indochina wars. The professional military today are as great a reservoir of bravery, talent and dedication as they ever were. In the right context, they would serve the country in the future as well as they did in World War II or Korea. Moreover, in this dangerous world, their services are indispensable.

Yet it is also true that a democracy dare not risk a military system that is out of control or habituated to the practice of deceit. Who is responsible for compromising the military's integrity and good name?

The career officers themselves and particularly the generals at the top can be blamed for recommending ruthless policies and for complying with political directives which they knew to be wrong. They are also responsible for penalizing the dissenters in their own ranks.

But it has to be recognized that the hierarchy of values which the military live by—physical courage, duty to country, obedience to the chain of command, deep loyalty to one's comrades—are not the same as the liberal values which civilians cherish—indifference of mind, skepticism, tolerance for disagreement. An open society is in deep trouble if it looks to its military men to be the only defenders within the government of values that its civilian leaders are supposed to practice and defend.

The military are analogous to the police. Society gives them a tough job. If society wants the job done only by certain methods and within certain limits, then it is up to society to enforce these methods and limits. That is why the courts enforce the restraints of due process on the police. That is why civilians are in command of the military.

Yet it was Presidents Johnson and Nixon — and not anyone in a

ETV And Watergate

With educational television giving so much time to its "gavel-to-gavel" coverage of the Watergate hearings, it's no surprise that Nebraska ETV mail has included a number of comments on it.

Here's a sampling of viewer mail on that subject, as provided by ETV Program Manager Ron Hull to the State ETV Commission this week:

An Omaha wrote: "Please be advised that I am grateful to educational television for the showing of the Watergate hearings during the evening hours. The Watergate situation is of such great dimension and national interest that every effort must be made to ensure that every person has the opportunity to watch first-hand the testimony which is being given. 'It is humanly impossible for the news media to summarize the emotion and demeanor of each witness and the complete and full story. We must have the opportunity to watch the hearings without editing. The possibility of democracy in the future requires it.'"

A viewer from Exeter did not share that opinion: "The Senate investigation should not be on educational television. People are complaining on other networks. It's a waste of good educational time. Therefore, I'm disappointed with Nebraska ETV."

From a Lincolnite came this response: "Enclosed is our check for membership in NPTV (Nebraskans for Public Television). While we have always kept abreast of programming on ETV and have greatly benefited from that programming, the one factor which prompts us to take this step is your showing of the Senate Watergate hearings."

"I hope our feelings will be forwarded to PBS (Public Broadcasting Service) as we feel this service is so vital that the public should not be denied it."

Another viewer wrote anonymously: "You would never get a dime from me as long as you have Watergate every night. I am a good American. You can see what the news media and Democrats are trying to do."

From Fairbury, however, came this "middle" American reply: "We have enjoyed the Watergate sessions on Channel 12 here in Fairbury — contrary to some reports you may have gotten that we Middle Americans out here in the boondocks have seen enough of the Ervin committee hearings."

The same viewer, however, didn't think much of the break in the hearings to air "Backyard Farmer," the popular show on gardening advice.

Here was the response to that: "We should have had some warning that you were going to interrupt John Dean's testimony."

"If this is your technique to get viewer reaction, then I hope you've succeeded. Believe me, while Mr. (George) Round and his 'grassroots' cohorts are on, we are now tuned to other more exciting fare, such as time, temperature, humidity and wind velocity."

"But this is Nebraska, I realize. And we must expect a certain amount of idiotic treatment, even from an ETV program director."

Disagreement on that score came from Villisca, Iowa: "Accentuate the positive! Keep the 'Farmer' at 9 o'clock."

From Norton, Kan., however, came this: "Please dispense with the 'Backyard Farmer' until after the Watergate hearings. My belief is that the general public will be able to cope with the bees, grub worms and weevils until after they have been given the opportunity to know the damage the 'bugs' in our government have caused."

The question of "Backyard Farmer" on Watergate was obviously one of the biggest springboards for comment. Another "Farmer" fan wrote: "We've had it with Watergate. Let's have at least a little variation. Plenty of hours left for Watergating."

From Lincoln, however, came a different view: "As a charter member of Nebraskans for Public Television, we strongly protest removal of Watergate for 'Backyard Farmer.' While history is being made, Nebraskans are watching 'Backyard Farmer.' We urge a speedy return of Watergate."

And finally, one "Backyard Farmer" fan suggested "using Watergate hearings as filler only."

It is interesting to note that during the three months ending June 30, the Watergate hearings ran second to "Backyard Farmer" in the total number of requests or comments received by Nebraska ETV.

But, even so, it was not a close second by any means. "Backyard Farmer" elicited 5,391 contacts; Watergate 581.

A total of all contacts received by the Nebraska network during those three months indicates, above all, that there's more and more interest in public television.

The 1973 total was 14,341, compared with 7,743 during the same three months in 1972.

That's quite a jump. Among those contacts this year were 2,226 favorable comments, compared with 124 unfavorable ones.

Muckraker's Mission

WASHINGTON — Americans have soaked up many a shock lately; no wonder some are punchy. Our leaders have lied to us about war and peace. A 10-year conflict has been lost, all its hopes in ruins. Atrocities have tarnished the image of our military. A dozen congressional figures have been convicted or censured.

Crime rises while law-enforcement at the highest levels is subverted; one prominent prosecution after another fails because the jury finds the government more disreputable than the accused. Our dollar has lost almost as much credibility as the White House.

It is a symbol of a world turned upside down that even the late J. Edgar Hoover is now disparaged by superiors. And lest anyone escape the grim news, Watergate dramatizes and compounds it all.

People come to hate those who destroy their faith. They begin to believe that all politicians are corrupt, that the press is incorrigibly venal, that the nation is diseased — all infected by a system that somehow has ceased to work. So persuaded, millions sink into a funk, or rise into a dudgeon, alike vulnerable to the nostrums of political quacks who never fail to come forward.

Should the muckraker take a sabbatical? No. Until he is ready to concede that America is sick beyond the cure of truth, he must continue to stalk the incriminating memo and the double-entry ledger.

Strangely enough, he has more confidence in America than most others. In this season of disillusion, when our national spirit is damp and bedraggled, perhaps he can serve by once in a while writing about how his pursuit of grafters and chiselers has taught him to better respect and love his country.

The muckraker's career hangs upon three attributes of our society. First, the relative scarcity of corruption: If it were the norm, it would not be news. Second, the probity of most citizens: If the majority found official corruption undisturbing, the cry of the reformer would become hollow. Third, the ultimate responsiveness to truth, when forced to the wall, of our governmental system: It has demonstrated a unique tolerance, however reluctant, of hostile inquiry.

Tough though his hide gets to be, the investigative reporter is as emotionally needy of empathic response as a clown or an actor. If his public was unmoved by exposures, if his work did not sometimes cause wrongs to be righted, he would soon lose stomach for it and become a speech writer or an old man at a better pay.

He learns in the most intimate way that the people care deeply that right be done. And he comes to know in his bones that though an individual politician, or a government agency, or even a whole administration may be his adversary the American system is his friend.

There is one comforting thought about the nature of crime — its particularity. A Lee Harvey Oswald or a William Calley or a Charles Manson is not representative of a society or an army or a generation. He is an aberrant. We discover this in the peculiarities of his disturbed life; we know it, too, from looking at the rest of America.

Applied to political crimes, the rule of particularity again puts things in balance. Among the affluent and the privileged, crimes are committed by culpable individuals, calculating, for identifiable motives.

Just as the ideologue will excuse the actual felon in order to indict society as the criminal, the professional patriot bemoans any exposure of flaws because he is not really sure about the strength and goodness of this land and secretly fears it may crumble if the facade is disturbed.

The muckraker has no such doubts. He pounces with unholy zeal on any clue of malfeasance precisely because he is secure in his faith that this country is too good and too strong to be hurt by the truth. The pillars will stand; let the dry rot be blasted out.

Perhaps a reporter, like a prize fighter, is in trouble the moment he gets a bit reflective and sentimental. But when I see this nation scourging itself because it must have the truth, I must rise from my wallowings to say and urge others to say, "I love America."

The nearly $2 million in federal funds which was squandered on President Nixon's homes in San Clemente and Key Biscayne represents only a portion of the public's contribution. When all the monies are counted, the total is likely to climb over $3 million.

Despite an intense cover-up effort on the part of the White House, for example, we have uncovered several major expenditures which are yet unreported. They include:

— A $129,000 instrument landing system which the Navy purchased for the El Toro Marine base, located 30 miles north of San Clemente, to enable the presidential jet to land there in inclement weather. The system was installed and is maintained by the Federal Aviation Administration.

— A $400,000 helipad which was built at Key Biscayne by the Army Engineers. The helipad is a standard item, but it was installed in such a way that it juts into the waters of Biscayne Bay. A special foundation, therefore, had to be built.

McCook — It's the same old agricultural song and the consumers aren't likely to appreciate the lyrics.
Regardless what happens in the crop harvest this year consumer prices are never going to return to the good old days.
Further, according to a panel of federal officials meeting here Thursday, if federal export controls are imposed on the nation's crops both the farmer and the consumer are going to be even harder hit.

Thieves Blamed For Liederkrantz Blaze

Grand Island (UPI) — Thieves, using an acetylene torch to open a vault in a downstairs office of a private club here Thursday morning, caused the office to catch fire, filling the entire building with smoke. Grand Island firemen found the acetylene torch burning in the office of the Liederkrantz when they arrived on the scene around 6:45 a.m. Grand Island police said a safe holding money inside the vault was not opened, but two cigaret machines were broken into and a cash box was found empty in another area of the building.

HUD OKs Cash For Fremont Improvements

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—An application for more than $247,000 in federal funds for an improvement project in downtown Fremont has been approved, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) told Fremont city officials Thursday.

The federal funds will be matched with money assessed from abutting property owners in the 10 block area to be revamped. Improvements will include new paving, sidewalks and lighting, fountains, trees, sidewalk furniture and additional off-street parking.

City Administrator Jack Sutton said it is hoped that bids can be let by September with construction to start in April or May of next year.

Charges Filed In Death Case

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—Charges of assault with intent to do great bodily injury, a felony under Nebraska law, have been filed in Lincoln County District Court here against Cecil Nichols, 35, of North Platte.

Last Saturday, a coroner's jury inquest ruled that the July 28 death of James Simants, 38, also of North Platte, was due to an illegal act of Nichols.

Lincoln County Attorney Walt Mullikin said Simants died of an apparent brain hemorrhage in a Lincoln County jail cell about 12 hours after being arrested for intoxication.

Mullikin said Nichols and Simants were apparently involved in an altercation on the evening of July 26, and during the altercation, Nichols kicked Simants in the head with his boots.

A second charge, assault with intent to do bodily injury, was filed against Nichols last week in connection with another incident involving Earl Anderson of North Platte.

Nichols has been arraigned on the charges stemming from the Anderson case, and was being held in the Lincoln County Jail in lieu of $1,000.

He had not been arraigned on the charges in the Simants case.

Need For New Land Use Laws Cited

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Legislative hearings on the possibility of a state land use planning law suggested that new laws were needed to keep foreign investors from buying land in Nebraska as well as some kind of controls on the use of land.

Glenn Kreuscher, state agriculture director, cited the large amounts of American dollars in the hands of Japanese businessmen and Arabian leaders as a matter of concern to the Legislature.

"There are staggering amounts of American money around the world in the hands of people with an eye on our huge potential for increased food production," he said.

Kreuscher's suggestion prompted Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca to recall that in the days before Pearl Harbor, Japanese tourists gathered information of military value. "These people may be coming here on another pretext," he said.

John Klinker, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation suggested that "farmers will have to become interested in rural zoning and land use planning. They have traditionally resisted the idea but it is time an educational program on land use planning was developed to inform farmers and non-farmers about the implications of the land use legislation now under consideration in the Congress."

Klinker joined previous witnesses who had suggested that the Natural Resource Districts should be involved in the planning and administration of land use laws.

Kreuscher avoided suggesting any particular agency for the task of administering the land use planning for the state.

E. R. Miller, representing the Nebraska Railway Association, suggested that any state-wide land use planning needed to consider much more than soil conservation and agriculture. "This law must also consider the long term needs of industry, transportation and recreational facilities," he said.

Clinton Frank, representing the land division of the Union Pacific Railroad as a legislative consultant, warned the committee that very few congressmen and senators in Washington really understood how broad the legislation on land use is.

"As this law stands now it could prevent a person from building a house on land he owns. It can prevent a man from irrigating a piece of land. It literally takes away all the rights of property owners including people who live in a city like Lincoln and Omaha," he said.

Frank suggested that the committee should meet with the state's congressional delegation to discuss the problems the land use law would produce.

His suggestion was seconded by James Gardner, representing the Home Builders Association. "I can't think of a single piece of legislation that affects more people. I suggest your committee meet with Congressmen Thone and McColister as soon as possible, while they are still on their break if possible," he said.

Pressure Being Used To Curb Meat Shortage

Kearney (UPI) — Paul Johnston of Schuyler, executive secretary of the Livestock Feeders Assn. in Nebraska, said here Wednesday his organization and others are applying pressure to curb the meat crisis, but he does not know if those in control will believe them.

Johnston said to a certain extent a lot of ranchers now have no markets. He said in some areas where there is custom killing of livestock, farmers and ranchers come out ahead.

However, he said he has talked to feeders and they have said they have little stock ready to go onto the market.

He said others reported they can feed their stock 30 days or so without any problem.

Johnston said the lack of a plentiful supply is due to winter losses last year. He added that government intervention with the price freeze has curtailed the raising of more cattle.

Comment Invited On Discharges Into Waterways By Industries

Omaha (AP) — Nebraskans have until Sept. 13 to comment on requests of firms to make discharges into waters near Omaha, Lincoln and Seward.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has given tentative approval to these discharges:

— Millard Warehouse, Omaha, effluent from its food storage area into West Papillion Creek.

— Fairmont Foods Co., effluent from its milk and cottage cheese plant at Lincoln into Salt Creek.
— Hughes Brothers, Inc., effluent from its manufacturing plant at Seward into the Big Blue River.

Details on the discharges are available through the agency's Kansas City regional office or the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control.

Reaction To Speech Follows Party Lines

Nebraska politicians reacted to President Nixon's Watergate speech Thursday primarily along party lines with Republicans tending to be satisfied, while Democrats were not.

Republican Sen. Roman L. Hruska said, "The President's message was sincere, direct and very effective. The public should be assured that he did not have knowledge of the Watergate break-in and that he was not aware of the coverup.

"The record of testimony clearly shows this, as he pointed out. Every witness except one bore out his statements. That was (former White House Counsel) John Dean, who spoke only from impression, not evidence or proof. Impressions are not admissible evidence in court nor in the minds of thoughtful Americans especially when uttered by one who is so highly motivated to save his skin at all costs.

"The President outlined well the historical and constitutional basis for refusal to disclose the tapes. He has turned the corner on Watergate by this speech. Now it goes to the courts."

Democratic Gov. J. J. Exon described the speech as a rehash. He said he felt the thrust of the speech was that the affair must be decided by the courts.

Republican Rep. John Y. McCollister of Omaha said he hopes Nixon will call a news conference in the "very near future" and submit himself to newsmen's questions about Watergate.

McCollister said the weak point of the Nixon speech was "his pleading that he relied on the reports of subordinates. If he had not walled himself off from all other sources of information and advice, press conferences and contrary opinions, his intuition on who was telling him the truth would have been more accurate."

The governor said, "Unfortunately, there are other things to consider in this matter."

He said he was disappointed mainly because he had hoped that the President would provide some new material which would "help clear up the cloud that has been raised about the scandal."

Republican National Committeeman Dick Herman of Omaha said, "I thought it was a fine speech." He said he agreed with the President that the nation should "begin to confront the problems that face the nation and quit attacking the past."

Iowa Crash Kills Omahan

Avoca, Ia. (UPI) — Iowa Highway Patrol officers said an Omaha man was one of two men killed when a car was struck by a semi-trailer truck early Thursday.

The car-truck crash occurred in the westbound lane of Interstate-80 near Avoca, and authorities identified Lyell Eden, 31, as the Omahan killed.

The car, which officers said had no lights at the time, was struck by a truck driven by Bernard Boylan of Papillion.

Servants Praised

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Prime Minister Forbes Burnham said civil servants represent the "intellectual cream of the country" and should become active in politics.

"It would be a waste of cream if you allow it to sour instead of using it for fattening the country," he told a civil servants' convention.

Indians Give Thanks For Pow Wow Help

Lincoln's first Indian powwow ended Sunday and the powwow committee extended thanks to the community which came to visit and participate.

In a statement released Thursday, along with the results of dance contests, the committee also thanked those who gave money and the police and park rangers who let the Indians handle their own policing chores.

The committee said, "We... feel a very important step towards understanding between the non-Indian and Indian communities was achieved by our coming together as 'people'..."

It went on to say, "We feel you know us better now, and many fears and misconceptions were dispelled on both sides."

The committee concluded by saying it hopes to make the powwow an annual city event.

The categories and winners were:

Mens straight dance — George Tashone, first; Pete Moore Sr., second; Rufus White, third.

Mens fancy dance — Mitchell Sheridan, first; Kenny Blackbird, second; Norman Newrider, third.

Ladies cloth dance — Elaine Fields, first; Harriet Sleeper, second; Renee Queton, third.

Ladies buckskin — Ina Rave Bushhead, first; Denis Jones, second; Eleanor Owens, third.

Boys junior division — Pat Moore, first; Pete Moore Jr., second; David Fields, third.

Hold The Phone—Hear Music

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Some 30 Omaha-area firms now provide music for telephone callers placed on hold while awaiting the person with whom he wants to talk.

The music by telephone is supplied by banks, savings and loan institutions, retail and service stores which subscribe to a switchboard melody system supplied by Business Music Service of Omaha, also known as KFAB Muzak.

The purpose of the system, introduced here several months ago, is to end the dead silence that greets callers who must be put on hold, Stephen H. Sanders, Business Music Service sales manager said.

Listening to music through the receiver "relieves the boredom of sitting with a dead line," Sanders said. "A person is less likely to feel he's been forgotten and hang up if he has to wait awhile."

The music heard on the phone is the same that is piped into businesses that subscribe to Muzak. The music is specially arranged and produced in New York to create a "psychologically pleasant atmosphere."

"We've found that the music tends to soothe people, while waiting in silence just makes them madder," Sanders said.

Crop Loss Estimate At $3.5 Million

Grand Island, Neb. (AP) — A hail storm that swept through Central Nebraska Tuesday night caused an estimated $3.5 million damage to crops in Valley County, according to Lloyd D. Zickmund, of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service in Ord.

The estimate was released Thursday.

Crops destroyed included corn, beans, popcorn, alfalfa and grain sorghum.

There were no reports of livestock deaths, but many animals were reported severely "battered" by the storm.

Zickmund said it appeared the hail storm was the worst in the county's history.

Farms hardest hit included those owned by Orel Koelling, Clarence Fox, Dale Mulligan and Emma Smith.

On the Smith farm near North Loup, crops were destroyed and windows were knocked out of buildings.

Similar damage was reported on other farms.

Rites Set For Cletus Bode, 60

Lincoln Star Special

Gothenburg — Funeral services for Cletus Bode, 60, retired soil conservation contractor, will be at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Our Lady of Good Counsel Church here. He died Wednesday.

Mr. Bode served as treasurer of the Nebraska Conservation Contractors Association for nine years.

Surviving are his wife, Nellie; daughters, Mrs. Rosalie Tederman of Sargent and Mrs. Clete McCann of Lakewood, Calif.; son, Charles of Lincoln; and two grandchildren.

Services Held For Californian

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Funeral services were Thursday for a Sunland, Calif. man, killed over the weekend in a motorcycle accident near Waterloo, Neb.

Officers said Dennis William Peabody was killed Saturday.

State Patrol officials originally identified the victim as Byron Trist of Pacific Grove, Calif. Officers said the Trist identification was based on identification found on the victim.

Justice Spencer Named To Head Judges' Panel

By United Press International Harry A. Spencer, an associate justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court, has been appointed chairman of the Continuing Education Committee of the Appellate Judges' Conference of the American Bar Association.

He is a former chairman of the conference and will be responsible for six seminars for appellate judges during 1973-74.

The conferences are tentatively scheduled for Seattle, San Francisco, Miami Beach, Phoenix, New Orleans and Mackinac Island.

San Francisco Plants Trees Amid Concrete

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tree grows in concrete.

Eighty redwood trees have been planted smack dab in the middle of the financial district as part of a $250,000 park in front of the Transamerica building.

A spokesman for the building said the 20-foot-tall redwoods were planted in the half-acre park to form "the first downtown urban setting anywhere in the country for these trees."

He said the trees should grow to a height of 200 feet in about 50 or 60 years.

Charges Possible After Police Find Makings Of A Jail Break

U.S. Assistant Atty. Dan Wherry Thursday was studying the possibility of filing charges after Lincoln police discovered the makings of a jail break during a routine shakedown Wednesday.

Lt. Roger LaPage disclosed that police discovered a ventilation duct in one of the cells had been cut open. The duct was covered by plates of steel in front of a wire mesh, he said.

LaPage said the cuts made in the plates and the wire mesh had been disguised by placing strips of cloth over the cuts and then

ICC Chairman To Address Local Seminar

George M. Stafford, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will address a day-long seminar for businessmen in Lincoln next Tuesday, Congressman Charles Thone announced.

Stafford will be luncheon speaker at the seminar concerning opportunities for Nebraska businessmen to sell goods and services to the federal government.

The meeting, co-sponsored by Vision 17 Inc., and Thone, will be held at the Villager Motel.

About 25 federal officials who have responsibility for buying goods and services will attend the conference, Thone said.

Wesleyan Sets 'Dual Degree' Study Program

Nebraska Wesleyan University has established a dual degree program for engineering study with the Georgia Institute of Technology, according to Prof. Carroll L. Moore.

Under the program, students who complete three years of pre-engineering work at Nebraska Wesleyan and two years at Georgia Tech will receive a degree from each institution, Prof. Moore said.

The program is similar to one already in effect between Nebraska Wesleyan University and Columbia University School of Engineering, he said.

In the case of highly qualified students, it is possible that those students will receive a degree from Georgia Tech at the master's level under the agreement outlined by Moore.

Police Probing Report By Girl Of Gun Incident

Lincoln police Thursday were investigating two incidents this week in southwest Lincoln when a 17-year-old black girl told police that a man in a red pickup truck fired a pistol at her.

The first time, on Tuesday, the girl told police, two men in the pickup pulled up beside her as she was walking on the sidewalk. The driver shouted an obscenity at her and fired a pistol at her, she said.

The second time, on Wednesday, the girl told police, she was sitting in a car with another woman at a dairy stand when the man drove past and again fired a pistol at her.

Man Dies In Leap

painting them red, the color of the 9 inch by 12 inch duct.

Those suspected in the attempt, LaPage said, are Paul Kennedy, the suspect in the shotgun slaying of John L. Vajgrt of Crete; Carl William Post, who recently pleaded guilty of holding up the Cornhusker Drive-In bank, and Alonzo King, who was being held for being a felon in possession of a firearm. King is now imprisoned at Leavenworth.

LaPage said two other prisoners were being questioned in connection with the incident.

Usher: Exon Should Disclose Money Records

First District Republican Chairman Monroe Usher Jr. of Lincoln Thursday added his voice to the Republican chorus urging Gov. J. James Exon to make public the financial transactions of Citizens for Exon.

Usher said he thinks the people should know how much money the governor and his committee have received while Exon was in office and how much of it goes into the campaign committee.

Dyas Called On To Tell Policy In Campaigning

Nebraska Teenage Republican State Chairman Dave Boomer of Lincoln Thursday called on Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas "to disclose the policy of the Democratic Party concerning the state chairman simultaneously campaigning for public office."

Boomer said the GOP requires the chairman to resign if he is a candidate for public office.

Dyas may be a candidate for the 1974 Democratic nomination for the First District congressional seat now held by Republican Charles Thone.

First Purebred Simmental Calf Born In State

Valentine (UPD) — What is believed to be the first purebred Simmental heifer to be born in Nebraska has been born on a ranch south of here.

Dick Tetherow reported the purebred Simmental heifer was born Saturday to a two-year-old heifer.

The calf weighed 88 pounds at birth, and was sired by a bull called Galant.

Tetherow said he had checked with Nebraska Simmental Association officials in Hyannis and Grand Island, and no similar reports had been received to date.

Love, Marriage Not Compatible With The Law

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — Love and marriage don't always mix with law and order.

Officer David Barkdull, 24, and dispatcher Karen Gruber, 22, of the El Segundo Police Department got married recently and discovered the city had a rule against employment for two members of the same family in the same city department.

Mrs. Barkdull has been placed on a 30-day leave while officials mull over the matter.

Exon Announces 6 Appointments To State Posts

By United Press International Gov. J. James Exon announced three appointments Thursday as well as three reappointments.

Terry Pesek of Omaha was named to replace Gene E. Jordan on the Nebraska Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards. Pesek, Omaha Public Works Director, will serve until Nov. 3, 1975.

Gene Shaver of Scottsbluff, a potato shipper, was reappointed to the Potato Development Committee, and Garland Fisher of Hemingford and Vesley Frank of Kimball were named new members of the committee. All will serve two-year terms.

Fisher and Frank replace Paul Tyler of Central City and Fred Ehrman of Gering, whose terms expired Aug. 10.

The governor said Richard Lackoff of Bassett was re-named for a four-year term on the Nebraska State Brand Committee, and Herman A. Brockmeier of Lincoln was given a five-year term on the State Personnel Board.

All but Kennedy were reported to be federal prisoners.

LaPage said three files, several hacksaw blades and a tungsten-carbon cutting wire were found woven into a mop found in the cell block.

Police admitted they have not yet determined how the tools were smuggled into the jail.

The duct would have given the prisoners access to a large area above the ceiling. Police however, said it would have been very difficult for any escapees to get out of the building.

The cuts in the ductwork were discovered several hours before the jail complex was flooded when prisoners stuffed rags down toilets.

LaPage, however, said police are not linking the flooding with the escape attempt.

"The flooding would have just diverted more police to the jail area" making it more likely that an escape would have been noticed, LaPage said.

City, Union Agree On Salary Boosts

Agreement has been reached on a two-year contract between the city and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 278.

The two-year contract calls for a 7.5% wage hike beginning Sept. 1 and another 5% hike next year, Don Elrod, international representative said Thursday.

The contract does not include any fringe benefits, but does provide for a "mutual consent wage reopener" clause. The clause becomes operable in six months and would permit renegotiation of the second year's 5% salary boost in the event that inflation renders that figure ineffective, Elrod said.

Either party may request that negotiations for the second year be reopened, but the mutual consent of both parties would be required to renegotiate the terms, he reported.

Local 278 members, representing some 560 city workers, "overwhelmingly" voted to approve terms of the contract at a union meeting Wednesday night, Elrod said. The vote was not unanimous.

The agreement also provides for establishment of a labor-management committee to improve labor relations with the city.

Thirteen meetings preceded agreement on contract terms. Although the City Council has reportedly agreed to the terms, Elrod said, the contract has not yet been formally signed.

Personnel Director Walt Mitchell noted that the increases represent an average 6.4% wage hike.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said that the agreement with the union will have less than a mill's impact on the total mill levy for the city.

The contract with Local 278 is the first wage package agreed to by city employees, with negotiations still under way between the city and the police, fire, bus and City Employees Association.

Board OKs Phase I Of City Jobs Study

The City Personnel Board Thursday approved the first phase of a comprehensive job classification study for city employees.

But some of the study's recommendations came under fire from Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker who contended the program was not "workable."

Phase I of the survey audited some 400 jobs. The net result of the survey, personnel technician Harvey Schwartz reported, was to increase the number of job classification positions from 39 to 52.

The purpose of the audit is to determine the type of work being done by city employees. Personnel Director Walt Mitchell emphasized, however, that the survey was not "an efficiency study."

Questions System Blocker questioned the whole system of analyzing jobs on an audit basis and asked for clarification of two new job classifications recommended in his department. The study creates two new positions, Utility Worker I and Utility Worker II, where one position now exists.

Blocker contended the job descriptions were confusing and asked "how a personnel technician could recommend such changes on the basis of a 10 to 15 minute interview?"

"I ran into a very arbitrary decision," he claimed, adding he told the mayor earlier Thursday that "As far as I'm concerned, he could just as well appoint the personnel director to public works director."

Said Mitchell, "I don't think anybody's trying to tell you how to run your business."

He stressed that one of the purposes of the study is to set up a ladder of job progression in a specific field of work and said he thought some compromise could be worked out.

Other Posts Surveyed Schwartz noted that Phase I of the study, underway since last November, also surveyed positions in the park, public works and finance departments. No complaints were received, he said.

The last full scale study of all classes was conducted in 1964. An updating of the job classification positions was recommended by a 1972 Public Administration Services study.

The Personnel Board also approved the creation of three new job classifications — director of community development, equal opportunity officer and a field investigator for the Human Rights Commission.

The recommended changes now go to the City Council for approval.

Survey: Bus Riders Want More Services

The Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) Board Thursday was told that a door-to-door survey on two bus routes revealed that people would like an additional number of services.

A canvass in the neighborhoods along the Irving

School and Arapahoe bus routes showed that people would like more information about the use of tokens, the creation of a customer service department and the equipment kept in shape.

A representative of Stuewig and Associates, LTS's public relations firm, reported that the air-conditioning on some of the fleet's one-year-old vehicles were out of order.

LTS Manager Jerry Rae reported that last week 11 air conditioners were not working, but that six are now back in working condition.

Board member John Alden stated, "If we can't keep the buses running on time and the air conditioning working, we don't stand a ghost of a chance to get the operation off the ground."

The board also set a policy that buses will not be pulled off regular routes to be diverted for charter service for Nebraska football games.

Board members also asked why minibus ridership was down during the month of July from 12,500 riders in 1972 to 8,600 riders this year.

LTS accountant Mark Huddleson said there was no apparent reason for the decline, but noted ridership is on the climb for August.

Alden also pushed for a creation of a five-year master plan for the bus system.

Columbus OKs Land Purchase For $75,000

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—The Columbus City Council has authorized about $75,000 for the purchase of the 30-acre Callaway Meadows Addition.

The land would be used for a future park and North Side Fire Station Reservoir.

The purchase price is about $2,500 per acre. Present owners are William Callihan and Eugene Treadway of Columbus.

Last Skylab To Observe Comet

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Officials said Thursday astronauts on the last Skylab mission will observe "the comet of the century," a brilliant space traveler that may light up the December sky like a Christmas star.

Skylab 3 will be launched Nov. 9, officials said, a date that will place astronauts in orbit during the dazzling pass around the sun of a comet experts believe may be the most awesome of the 20th century.

The announcement came as Skylab astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma neared the end of the third week of their 59-day mission. The astronauts spent most of day 20 observing the sun and distant star fields with instruments and conducting medical tests.

The comet, named Kohoutek for its discoverer, will flash into view early in December, whip around the sun and speed back into the depths of space, passing from view in January. At its closest pass to the sun, experts believe Kohoutek will be the most brilliant object in the night-time sky, perhaps 50 times brighter than the 1910 passage of Halley's Comet.

Skylab director William C. Schneider said the Nov. 9 launch date was selected in response to intense scientific interest in Kohoutek.

Using powerful telescope cameras orbiting above the obscuring effects of the earth's atmosphere, Skylab 3 astronauts Gerald Carr, William R. Pogue and Dr. Edward Gibson are expected to conduct the most fruitful comet studies ever accomplished.

Kohoutek is now nearing the orbit of Mars and will streak on toward the sun. It will become visible to the naked eye about mid-November and pass by the orbital path of the earth on Nov. 26.

The comet will increase in brilliance as it approaches the sun and become a prominent object in the predawn sky of earth. Kohoutek will approach within 13 million miles of the sun as it arcs around the solar backside. After passing the sun, it will become visible in the night sky.

The comet will be near its zenith at the same time a solar eclipse occurs over South America. On Dec. 24, the South American sky, darkened by the eclipse, will have the comet and the planets Jupiter and Venus grouped together in a spectacular display.

The comet was discovered in March by astronomer Lubos Kohoutek at the Hamburg observatory.

Scientist-astronaut Carl Henize said the comet is a "big snowball," probably composed of frozen gases. As it passes near the sun, he said, these gases will heat up, producing a display of light. Solar radiation will create a long stream of particles, the comet's "tail."

"It will be like a large searchlight in the sky," said Henize, who called Kohoutek "the comet of the century."

"The comet has come from an almost infinite distance out in space," said Henize. "It is probably made up of primordial matter" dating, perhaps, from the birth of the solar system.

Meanwhile, the Skylab 2 astronauts conducted intensive study of the sun under a new schedule designed to harvest even more scientific data from their flight.

The astronauts also took samples of blood Thursday for use in medical studies.

Garriott took time to change spiders in a study of the effects of weightlessness on earth creatures.

The astronaut removed Arabella, the space spider, from her glass cage and replaced the insect with another spider, named Anita.

During her time in the cage, Arabella first spun irregular webs. Then, apparently adjusting to zero gravity, she spun a near-normal web with its typical circular patterns.

Garriott said he broke Arabella's web earlier to see if she would weave a new one, but "that seemed to make her very discouraged. She wouldn't spin any more."

Secret Service Agent Quits; He Told On McGovern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service said Thursday that a special agent who reportedly disclosed political intelligence during the 1972 presidential campaign has resigned.

The agent, James C. Bolton Jr., revealed an intelligence item about the Democratic candidate, Sen. George McGovern, whom he was detailed to protect, a spokesman said.

The agency said it has completed an extensive investigation into published reports that Bolton passed information to the White House through his father, James C. Bolton Sr.

The agency said it "has determined that this matter is an isolated incident which occurred through a family relationship of a Service employee."

A spokesman said Bolton apparently disclosed the information to his father while visiting his parents between campaign trips.

"The investigation established that the agent was unaware his father passed this information on to any third party," the spokesman said.

"However, the disclosure of such information even under these circumstances is a violation of Secret Service policy."

The agency opened the investigation after the Washington Post said it had obtained a classified memorandum saying that Bolton passed information to the White House about a meeting that allegedly took place between McGovern and an unnamed subversive.

A subsequent memo said the report on the meeting was completely inaccurate, the newspaper said.

The senior Bolton, an administrative aide to Rep. Glenn Davis, R-Wis., has denied that he asked for any information or that his son supplied any.

Colson Apologizes To Finch For Memo

Los Angeles (UPI) — Former White House aide Robert Finch said Thursday Charles Colson had issued a "retraction and apology" about a memo that contended Finch suffered a mental breakdown in 1970.

"My lawyer and his lawyer worked out an agreement" after "we talked about the possibility of a lawsuit," said Finch, who resigned as lieutenant governor of California to join the Nixon administration.

Finch, a potential senatorial or gubernatorial candidate next year, said Colson, also a former White House aide, made the apology in a lengthy telegram.

"The gist of it is that Colson had libeled and defamed me with the memo and he is apologizing for it and retracting it," Finch said.

"Apparently a young guy in his office wrote the memo and I hope this lets the kid know you have to be accountable for your actions," he added. "It's typical of some of the backdoor mentality in certain parts of the White House."

Home Ec Must Keep Pace

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

"For better or worse, the traditional family exists no more."

Arthur Neimann, publisher of two national home economics magazines and vice-president of "Scholastic Magazines," made this sweeping pronouncement Wednesday at an afternoon session attended by delegates to the 55th annual State Home Economics Conference.

The traditional family, Neimann stated, has "been done in by time and change," and the fact of its demise must be faced by educators — especially those in the home economics field.

The previously-held ideals around which home economics courses were built, have by-and-large been replaced by new attitudes that have emerged as a result of a number of factors — the increasing number of mothers who work outside the home; the "new permissiveness;" the spiraling divorce rate; the greater degree of family mobility; and the heightened popularity of ideas such as zero population growth and contract marriages.

In order to meet the challenges inherent in these changes, he called on home economists to "rebuild" and "renew" their discipline on the basis of the issues of the future.

Addressing himself to the role that educators have heretofore played in coping with the rapid changes that have taken place, he continued, "In the past 20 years, 'relevance' has been the key word in our schools. . . But we forgot the most relevant of all courses — life."

"For that's what education should be — preparation for life."

He stated that home economics, which is primarily concerned with the problems of living, has been the field most drastically affected by changes in society.

However, Neimann observed that home economists' efforts to keep pace with these alterations have frequently taken the form of "too little, too late."

Describing the attributes of the typical home-economics class — a female-oriented course in "baking cookies or sewing aprons" — he explained that they were geared towards that previous life-style in which male and female roles were clearly defined.

The traditional family has "been done in by time and change."

With the transformations that have occurred during the past several years however, this type of program is now outdated.

"The coming family lifestyle is one of sharing — with a blurring of the male and female roles," Neimann said. And home economics must respond accordingly if it intends to help students, and receive the financial backing it needs.

"If home economics can get itself together . . . there is no reason why it can't become the most important subject taught in our schools," he continued.

In order to attain this goal, home economists will have to rethink their position and take some practical steps to "recharge home economics."

The first step outlined by Neimann was that of bringing more boys into home economics courses.

Alluding to the fact that, in the future, men will have a larger role to play in the operation of the household, he stated, "In the new lifestyle, the home economics education of boys is essential."

Such things as consumer education, budgeting and child development are of interest to all people — not just girls; and as such, they must be emphasized in home economics curriculums.

Secondly, he would have home economists emphasize to the public and to their students the comprehensiveness of their discipline.

Finally, home economists should "re-organize in order to receive recognition and funds."

"I think it's time that we in home economics get angry," Neimann stated, stressing that the cause which is publicized is a cause that gets the concrete results.

He called for a "permanent, paid, executive director" to head the home economics organization in each state. This person's job would be "to know, inform and urge action on every topic that effects home economics," and to provide a measure of continuity in programs.

"Home economics has had a long and honored past," he concluded, adding that it can be the most important aspect of education "because of its concern with living, and better living, at that."

Another Snoring Solution

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you how I handled the "snoring husband" problem: For years I slept beside him and had many sleepless nights because I just didn't want separate bedrooms. I finally took a look at myself and reasoned that my husband would rather have a rested, loving wife in the morning than what I had become, so I explained that I wanted to hug him until he fell asleep — then I'd go into the guest room to sleep, and the first one awake in the morning would come to the other's room to be together.

Nothing has worked out better. I usually wake up first, take the pins out of my hair, brush my teeth, and apply a few dabs of his favorite perfume — then I plug in the coffee and quietly slip into bed with him. In a few minutes he smells the perfume and coffee and we enjoy a sweet time of being together. He seems much happier now than he has been in all our 26 years of marriage.

This works out so much better than a whole night of tossing. Each night we thank the Lord for each other, and we do it together. A couple becomes so close when they pray together. So tell the wives of snorers to do what I did, and not to forget the prayer — or the perfume.

GRATEFUL AND HAPPY
DEAR G. AND H.: Beautiful. But this arrangement is possible only after the kids have left home. Or for childless couples with guest rooms. For the less fortunate I recommend adhesive tape for his mouth and ear plugs for her ears, or a gentle jab in the ribs accompanied by: "Roll over darling, you sound like a 747."

Bread Prices Are Rising

RISING BREAD . . . costs don't worry Todd Douty, 7.

Bread, long recognized as the "staff of life" and a staple in man's diet, is going the route of most other foodstuffs — it is going up in price.

Let's you rush out and find a book of recipes for making your own doughy creations, here's another tip: Flour also is suffering from escalating prices.

Of course, agriculture, milling, and the baking industry are so interdependent that when prices go up in one of those areas, those increases are passed on from one to the other, all the way to the grocer's shelves and, eventually to the consumer.

The daily near-record wheat futures will undoubtedly have the long-range effect of creating additional price increases according to a group of millers, wholesale bakers, and grocers.

According to an official at Gooch Foods, Inc., "The price of flour has gone up several times, almost daily."

In dollars and cents, those increases have totalled $2.48 per hundred pounds of flour.

He further emphasized that had the bread tax not been lifted in mid-July, the price of flour would have been raised about $4.50 per 100 pounds.

He noted the effects of panic buying, saying, "We have had a tremendous surge of business and are hard pressed to fill orders. I wouldn't think there would be a shortage (of flour) but it's hard to tell."

Charles Wendelin of Wendelin Baking Co., which manufactures Aunt Betty bread, also dispelled notions of a current flour shortage.

"At the present time, there is no immediate flour shortage as such. The mills are having a hard time getting enough wheat," he said, pointing to the high price of wheat on the commodity exchange and the resultant reluctance of farmers to sell their grain, as well as the transportation shortage which has created problems in moving the wheat from the elevator to the mill.

"In my opinion if we keep exporting wheat we're definitely going to have a shortage come May and June," he added.

Wendelin said that at this time last year his company was paying $5.50 for 100 pounds of flour, whereas today's cost is $12.50 for the same amount, more than double last year's price.

As a result, Wendelin's has increased the prices of all its baked goods between two and three cents "across the board." The higher prices are seen on bread, buns, and rolls.

He added that if the cost of wheat continues to go up, his prices will necessarily go up another two or three cents per item.

"The demand for bread is increasing," Wendelin said. "As other grocery items get more scarce I think you will see them selling more bread."

The two-to-three-cent increase per loaf hit the grocery stores one week ago. It was evidenced on both private and national brands at Leon's, the local Hinky Dinky supermarkets, and at Mr. B IGA at 48th and Van Dorn. Hinky Dinky stores now are paying $2.10 over last January's costs of 10 five-pound bags of Gold Medal Flour, according to Tom Brown, advertising manager.

As the store's wholesale costs go up, so do the retail prices, he said. The third such increase on flour was revealed in the stores Thursday, Aug. 9.

Similarly, retail costs on Gooch Flour have increased 6 and 12 cents on 5- and 10-pound bags, respectively, at Mr. B's. The store's manager said that five-pound bags of variety flours have cost consumers three cents more since the beginning of August.

"Flour has gone up some, about a nickel on five pounds of all brands," said Sam Davidson, owner of Leon's.

And the three grocers had few words of encouragement for the consumer.

"I'm certain there will be further raises," said the manager of Mr. B. "This is just a start as far as price raising goes."

Bridge: A Bidding Quiz

You are South and have the following hand:

♠ K8 ♥ 5 ♦ KQJ74 ♣ AQ963

1. You bid One Diamond and, after North responds One Spade, you bid Two Clubs. North bids Two Spades. What would you bid now?

2. You bid One Diamond and North responds One Spade. When you then bid Two Clubs, North responds Two Hearts. What would you bid now?

3. You are the dealer and the bidding goes:

South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	1♥	Pass
2♣	Pass	3♦	Pass
4♣	Pass	4♠	Pass

1. Three spades. This hand is by no means a minimum opening bid and you therefore cannot afford to pass. Nor should you bid three clubs, which might equally bring matters to a grinding halt. The fact is that when partner bids spades a second time after you've shown a two-suiter, he is almost sure to have six or more of them. Consequently, your K-8 are very adequate trump support and you should show that support as well as your extra values by raising partner to three.

North may well have something like this:

in which case you'd surely want to be in game.

2. Three clubs. It is true you have extra values that are not revealed by the three-club bid, but at this juncture it is much more important to disclose the two-suited nature of your hand. You may well be on the way to a slam, but before you can consider how high you are going, you have to clarify which way you are going.

Having already made two forcing bids, partner is not expected to stop bidding now. If he displays interest in one of your suits, you will then be able to announce your excess values.

3. Four notrump. Four spades is a cuebid announcing interest in a slam and you should happily go along with partner's idea by using Blackwood. Not only is a small slam indicated at this point but there is a chance for a grand slam. Thus, if North has:

you will be able to go all the way by bidding four notrump followed by five notrump.

Male Model And Nocturnal Intruder Fight Duel To Death

New York (UPI) — A well-known male model and a nighttime intruder fought a bedroom duel to the death Thursday before the horrified eyes of the model's wife.

Bruce Pecheur, 31, who modeled in more than 100 commercials and advertisements, and his wife, Lucy, were awakened about 2 a.m. in the apartment near Greenwich Village by an intruder standing at the bottom of the bed.

Police said Pecheur was bound by the intruder but managed to free himself and grab a .38-caliber pistol from his private collection.

"Now I'm going to have to hurt you," the burglar said when he saw the gun.

The intruder, swinging a butcher knife, attacked, striking Pecheur in the leg, abdomen and chest, the last blow apparently piercing the heart. Pecheur at the same time fired three or four shots.

Both men collapsed simultaneously and were dead when police arrived.

The intruder was identified by police as a man known by four aliases who had a record for weapons possession, grand larceny, burglary and drug charges dating back to 1961. His police record listed him under the names Edward Garcia, Eddie Santos, Edward Rivera and Roman Crus.

Pecheur's agent, Joe Hunter, said Pecheur had been modeling five to six years and had appeared in commercials and advertisements promoting everything from coffee to razor blades.

"He never had one of those commercials that put him in the limelight," Hunter said. "He was an all around guy who could do almost anything."

Hunter said Pecheur had just finished doing a series of advertisements in Alaska in which he was to become the "rugged outdoor type image" for a brand of cigarettes. Those ads have not yet been released.

A graduate of Harvard University and a former teacher, Pecheur came to New York to act and had appeared in several off-Broadway plays and the

Andy Warhol movie "Trash."

Police said the intruder demanded money when the couple awoke. He tore up a bed sheet and tied Pecheur's hands and then led Mrs. Pecheur, who was not injured, into the living room where she gave him about $40.

Pecheur managed to untie his hands and grab his pistol. The burglar returned with Mrs. Pecheur to the bedroom a short time later and as the woman watched, the fight began.

Pecheur's body was found sprawled across the bed, the pistol in his hand. The burglar was in a pool of blood on the floor at the foot of the bed, still clutching his knife.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Friday

A Cancer who is an all-time champion: Jack Dempsey. Two Capricorns who seem always to be surrounded by intrigue and money: Howard Hughes and Muhammad Ali. A Capricorn who belongs in anyone's Hall of Fame: Sandy Koufax. A Pisces who epitomizes glamor: Elizabeth Taylor. A Gemini who held that title: Marilyn Monroe. A Gemini I wish I had known: Judy Garland.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Home, marriage, security present challenge. Cycle is high and you can make correct decisions. Key now is confidence. Be independent. Adhere to principles. Delights indicated with Leo, Aquarius persons. New opportunity should be pursued.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tread lightly. Make no long-range commitments. Conditions are subject to rapid change. Aquarian plays key role. Emphasis is on information discerned behind the scenes. You will get hunch which is valid.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends have falling out — you should avoid taking sides. Those who battle today could be close and affectionate tomorrow. Avoid short view. Look and plan ahead. Some wishes need revision. You may be chasing a rainbow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be forthright, practical. Stick to facts. Ignore one who makes claims but refuses to put up or shut up. Goal is in sight but you may be taking circular route. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons may play important roles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be ready for quick changes, a variety of experiences. You find what was missing. Restless friends test your patience. Key now is to realize full story has not been revealed. Dig deep for information. Reject rumors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cut costs. You could be spending too much on too little. You can make peace with family member by more money concession. Evaluate priorities. Taurus, Libra persons could play prominent roles. Be diplomatic — but get an accounting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Lie low. Don't insist, push, chide or cajole. Permit mate, partner to lead. You do best now by listening, observing. You could be seeing in nonrealistic light. Know it and withhold judgment. Your views are subject to radical change.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be impatient with associates. You have good idea now of what should be done — and when. But many around you seem indecisive. Key is to stick to principles and program. Member of opposite sex is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lovers' quarrel may be featured. You find that relationship is tested. You must decide whether to finish or begin anew. Aries, Libra persons are in picture. Strive to obtain better distribution. Get ideas, products before people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find new ways. Old procedures cause delay, embarrassment. Family member will be co-operative. Know it and get going. There could be legal roadblock. However, creative resources are available and you win.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold off on trips. If possible, check reservations, appointments and messages. Relative chooses this time to be argumentative. Rise above the petty. Don't give in to temptation to take "easy way." Ideas require time to develop.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Avoid carelessness in connection with what appears to be "sure thing." Someone wants something for nothing — from you. Know it and keep guard in place. Member of opposite sex could play featured role.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY You are a natural organizer. You can manage money. You can earn but you are also somewhat extravagant. You seldom do things halfway — it usually is all or nothing. You draw to you persons born under Cancer and Capricorn. This month, August, should be one of the most significant for you in 1973.

Wheat Production

May Fall In Europe

Brussels (AP) — Wheat production in the nine common market countries is expected to drop below 40.1 million tons this year but there may be a record crop of maize, according to the latest figures of the organization's statistical office.

The figure for maize could soar to the 1971 level of 14.1 million tons, barley, rice and sugar beet production also appear on the rise. Rain in July was reported to have improved prospects except in southern France and Italy.

Oklahoma Has One, Too

Sports shorts while pointing out to you that Nebraska has not patent rights on silly senators. Oklahoma has at least one, that guy who's planning to sue the Big Eight, claiming probation against OU was a miscarriage of justice against 2 1/2 million residents of Oklahoma.

Duffy Daugherty, recalling his days as head football coach at Michigan State, "No matter how late I came home at night after a staff meeting, my wife always had my slippers and robe laid out for me and saw that there was plenty of hot water. She knew I hated to do the dishes in cold water."

One of the larger expense items the Football Coaches Association has in putting on the annual Coaches' All-American Game in Lubbock, Tex., each June is insurance on the players. This year, it cost them $10,000. Next year, the premium will be doubled.

Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Fred Norman recently made a trip to a barber to get rid of his long hair and San Francisco Giants' manager Charlie Fox is taking credit for the move.

"The only reason he got his hair cut was because I walked up to him and kissed him," Fox explains. "I think those long-haired fellows are cute..."

When the Oakland A's Sal Bando recently was thumbed out of a game with the Detroit Tigers recently for protesting a called third strike... on the last out of the game, Tigers' manager Billy Martin quipped, "That means he doesn't get to take a shower."

Cheap Promotion For Brewery

When a major brewery offered a year's supply of beer during two recent tournaments on the PGA Tour to the golfer scoring the low round in each tourney, Larry Hinson and Tom Shaw were the winners.

"A year's supply for them is a six-pack apiece," Bob Murphy pointed out. "If I'd won it, their stock would have gone down four points."

Not all pro sports teams are losers financially even if they're losers on the field. The New England Patriots with a 3-11 record last season had a net income after taxes of $545,313.

Frank Rose, the former University of Nebraska golfer and former Nebraska Men's State Amateur champion from Fairbury who has won two of the last three Kansas State Amateur titles since moving to Topeka, recently explained that part of his success to Topeka sports editor Bob Hentzen was the result of practicing every evening.

Admitting to Hentzen that being a bachelor was a factor in his being able to practice every night, Rose added, "But supper isn't ready when you get home."

Arnold Palmer recently stumped some golf writers by telling them he had hit a "rare" shot. Palmer finally explained that by "rare" he meant, "the shot wasn't very well done."

2 Is Okay, 4 Is Too Many

A major leaguer remembers when he played under Casey Stengel. "Casey once told us that he didn't mind you going out with your own roommate. But he didn't want four or five of us going out together because that way everybody would want to buy one round and by the end of the night we'd all be gassed."

Typographical errors are the bugaboo of all newspaper writers and editors. This one appeared recently in the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "The gallery began deserting the other golfers to follow pretty Laura Baugh whose shorts were dropping on the greens with regularity."

Richard Winkelman, a retired Omaha attorney, has become the first Nebraskan in the 78-year history of the world's largest sports participation organization to become president of the American Bowling Congress.

The 68-year-old Omahan has bowled two 300 games, a 299 and a 298. An 812 series he rolled in 1938 stood as the state record until 1964.

Bill Veeck on kids' baseball: "Little League is a disaster. It exists for parents who are trying to recover an ability of their own that never really existed."

Backers of college football in comparing it with the pro game like to point to the low-scoring games in the National Football League, but the league hasn't had a scoreless tie since 1943 when the New York Giants and Detroit Lions both went scoreless on Nov. 7 at Briggs Stadium in Detroit before a crowd of 16,992 with Gus Dorais coaching the Lions and Steve Owen the Giants.

Duo Tops Freshman Stakes

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Cowboy Cascio tries again to defeat Patsy's Reign as the two speedsters headline a field of seven entered for Friday's $4,000-added Freshman Stakes at the State Fairgrounds.

The two dueling last Wednesday in the State Fair Futurity over an identical six-furlong course with Patsy's Reign prevailing by less than one length after coming from off the pace to win.

Both have had excellent success this season in Lincoln and will be the pair to catch in the featured juvenile attraction of the meeting.

Owned by Paul Kemling, Patsy's Reign ran fifth to Linda Mia in Lincoln's Tassel Stakes, then placed second to Key Rina in an allowance test before winning an allowance chase on Aug. 4.

Her record stands at three victories and three seconds in 14 outings this season for winnings of $10,011 for her Aurora owner.

Cowboy Cascio won his first two Capital City races, including a half-length triumph in the Kernel Stakes. He was right on the pace throughout the State Fair Futurity and just missed catching Patsy's Reign after tiring slightly in the stretch.

He has three wins and two seconds in seven outings this season for winnings of $7,220 for Al and Eileen Cascio.

Cowboy Cascio with 122 pounds and Patsy's Reign with 119 pounds have drawn the topweights under the allowance stakes conditions of the chase. But five other runners are hoping to upset the favored pair.

Roman Doc, who will be coupled with Patsy's Reign in the wagering as a Kemling entry, broke his maiden here on Aug. 3 by roving to a five-length verdict.

Tom Chafee's Miss Aggieville, defeated Kemling's prized Queen's Turn at Grand Island's Ponner Park and ran second to Linda Mia in the Tassel stakes.

Joseph Moss' Our Tiger, Paul Jones' Foreign Intent and Olin Miles' Polly's Bay complete the field.

Humm Eyes Possible Future Role In Movies

At the moment, Nebraska quarterback Dave Humm is concentrating on stardom as a football player. But a role in movies is eyed as a future possibility for the handsome Las Vegas left-hander.

Humm, the 6-2, 191-pound junior spent the summer in his hometown where he worked five weeks in a clothing store, kept in shape, and turned down a chance for a part in a movie.

"I was going to get a little part in a film," Humm explained, "but it didn't come off because NCAA rules wouldn't permit it. We never really got down to details," he continued, "but it was going to be a western thriller called 'A Knife for the Ladies.' I was going to lead a posse and ride a horse and eventually we were going to hang somebody.

"I really wanted to do it," Humm recalled, "because guys like Pete Biletnikoff of the Oakland Raiders, Derek Sanderson of the Boston Bruins and Pete Athas of the New York Giants were going to be in it and it would have been fun to see how they'd do."

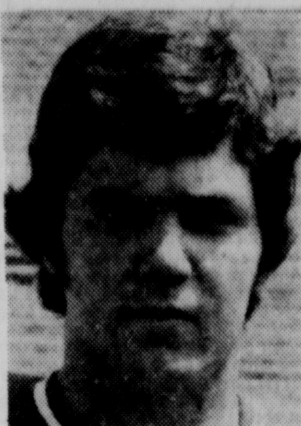

Humm says he hasn't given up on the idea, however.

"I talked to the producer," Humm explained, "and he's got five or six others that he's making, so maybe when I finish my college career, I can get in a couple of them."

Humm returned to the Nebraska campus in early August to prepare for the start of the Huskers' fall camp.

As a sophomore, the southpaw led the Huskers to a 9-2-1 season, an Orange Bowl thrashing (40-6) of Notre Dame, and a back-door Big Eight title when Oklahoma had to forfeit three conference games.

Individually, he broke six Nebraska passing records and tied another, set one Big Eight mark (completing 14 of 18 passes against Army for a .778 percentage) and combined with sub Steve Runty to set a team Big Eight mark of 23 TD passes in a season. Dave's 18 TD passes tied another conference

Dave Humm
Humm heads into his junior season as one of the top candidates for all-America honors.

"I worked out a lot harder this summer than I have before," Humm said, "and I'm in better shape than I was last year. We've got a lot to prove this year," he continued. "Everybody's got a good attitude and we want to do a good job for coach (new coach Tom) Osborne."

The loss of talent like Johnny Rodgers has had to hurt the Husker attack to some extent this fall, but Humm emphasized the positive aspects of the loss.

"You could always depend on John to break a long one sooner or later and give us a big morale booster and I think the rest of us relaxed a little knowing he was on the field," Humm explained. "This year, we're going to have to execute better, because last year we depended on Johnny more than we should have."

With an experienced offensive line and a stronger running attack, Humm says he thinks the Huskers will be stronger offensively in 1973.

"We've got depth at I-back this year with Tony Davis, Dave Goeller, Jeff Moran and John O'Leary and that means a lot to Steve (Runty) and I and the other quarterbacks," Humm said.

"Last year on second-and-long and third-and-long, the other team would drop defensive ends off and put a lot more people back on pass defense. We can keep the defense a little more honest now."

Braves Send Chicago To 11th Straight Loss

...HANK 12 AWAY FROM RUTH MARK

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hank Aaron, charging toward Babe Ruth's career home run record, got off unlucky 13 Thursday and then remembered the number still was riding with him.

Aaron collected career homer 702, his 29th of the season, off Chicago Cubs pitcher Jack Aker to top off a nine-run eighth inning which set up a 10-2 victory for the Atlanta Braves, extending the Cubs losing streak to 11 games.

The blow left Aaron 12 short of equalling Ruth's record but 13 short of setting a new career mark, a fact he didn't think of until he was in the dressing room.

"I'm glad to get off that number 13," he said. "I've been sitting there a long, long time, and I was beginning to think it was unlucky, too."

Aaron said he was aware that it was his first home run in Wrigley Field in two years and his first anywhere since July 31.

"I'm aware of every situation," he said.

Aaron said he believed Aker was "trying to waste the pitch and it got away from him. He got it too close."

But Aker said he wasn't trying to waste the pitch but it certainly "wasn't where I wanted it."

White, Dutton Elected Co-Captains

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Two all-American linemen, both leading candidates for the Outland Trophy, were elected Thursday by their teammates as co-captains for the 1973 Nebraska football team.

Offensive tackle Daryl White and defensive tackle John Dutton won the honors in balloting conducted Thursday morning as the Huskers opened fall camp.

"I couldn't be happier about the selection of White and Dutton," head coach Tom Osborne said after announcing the vote.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

THE GIRLS

by Franklin Folger

"Now, let's see - I fed Bozo, Tabby, Tweety, the guppies - am I forgetting anyone?"

"It was a marvelous vacation - a rustic campsite hidden deep in the woods, perfect for hunting and fishing - luckily, the car broke down and we never got there."
